FOOD SCENE, ON POINT

Turning our attention to the east for a moment, Downtown Brooklyn is now home to the new City Point—the largest food, shopping, and entertainment destination in the borough—featuring the premier dine-in movie theater from Texas, Alamo Drafthouse, with award-winning cuisine and 30 craft beers on tap. The complex also houses DeKalb Market Hall, which features Katz's Deli, Ample Hills Creamery, and Eight Turn Crepe, and Asian cuisine fans are set to welcome the authentic Szechuan restaurant Han Dynasty, opening in early spring. 445 Albee Square West, citypointbrooklyn.com

SWITCHING GEARS

Cycling class just got theatrical at the new IMAXShift, where riders can pedal through a maxi-screened solar system, over the coasts of Hawaii, or next to Beyoncé (virtually), all with cinema-grade projection. No two classes are exactly alike, as each includes a unique combination of music and imagery paired with energy-boosting instructors. Each bike's console also gives riders information about track speed, resistance, and other exercise data. 127 Plymouth Street, Brooklyn, imaxshift.com

PLANTED IN RELAXATION

The first full-service Sisley Spa in North America recently opened at The Carlyle hotel. A calming oasis, Sisley is famed for its phytotherapy and aromatherapy treatments, which use natural plant extracts and essential oils for immediate and visible results. Sought-after services include the Phyto-Aromatic Brightening Facial and the Restorative Relaxing Phyto-Aromatic Body Treatment. 35 East 76th Street, 3rd Floor, thisisleyspa.com

Coach's new Fifth Avenue flagship store—the brand's largest retail destination—is drawing shoppers with its new mascot, Rexy, a Tyrannosaurus Rex made from shoulder bags, makeup cases, and purses squished, stacked, and sewn on top of each other. Monogramming and bag repair is on the first floor, while on the third, shoppers can handle leather samples and then sit down with an iPad to customize a made-to-order Rogue bag. 685 Fifth Avenue, coach.com

A SENSE OF LEGACY

Experience perfection in a glass at Bottle and Bine bar, where "Bad Boy" Mixologist Moses Laboy is serving new "smoked" cocktails with Ketel One Vodka over dry ice (by lighting aromatics with an open flame over the completed drinks, Laboy enhances the "sensory experience"). Cocktails are themed on the Nolet family's (makers of Ketel One) 325-year-old distilling legacy, such as The 1691, with star anise smoke from maple wood and The Legacy, with flamed cinnamon perfume. 1085 Second Avenue, bottleandbine.com
